Dear City Council's Office,

As a young person who calls Burlington their home, I am extremely concerned over the council's recent decision to ask to be excluded from the Halton Region's vacant home tax.

As you must be aware, it is getting increasingly difficult for Canadians to afford basic necessities. Setting up shop for young Burlingtonians is becoming more of a dream than a reality. This potential tax could be one of many steps to help keep those who call Burlington their homes in Burlington.

While I am extremely disappointed in city hall and Mayor Marianne's stance on the tax, I believe you will make the right decision to put the needs of struggling Burlingtonians first. Please do not prove me wrong.

Sincerely,
Fianait Liu
Ward 6 resident
